christmas pantomimes, which offer fat and profitable engagements of from two to three months and are in great request. Miss Harriett Vernon, of the stately form and the tidy voice, said farestately farest The majestic Harriett was not the everwhelming success here that had been anticipated. Still, she managed to acquire a certain popularity, and her "Ting-a-ling-a-ling" song was received each night with much favor. Her salary, however, was a trifle steep for any result other than an emphatic furor Miss Vernon received $600 per week. Nowonder that she sang a mournful farewell. Such a salary in London, for this lady, would be an impossibility—and it will have the effect of adding to the craze now prevalent among English variety people for dear America and the sweet Americans. The clever little Reeve slaters two of whom have been singing at the Imperial Muste Hall and one at Koster & Bial's, return to Europe this week. Miss Ada Reeve is to appear in one of the Birmingham pantomines.

E. D. Price, business manager of "1492" has charge of the benefit that is to be given next Sunday night at Palmer's Thearre to Murvin R. Clarke, the blind journalist. One-fourth of the receipts, however, will go to the Actors' Fund. The artists will include Lillian Russell, Helen Dauvray, Digby Beil, Neison Wheatcroft, Flora Finlayson, J. B. Radcliffe, Harry Wright, T. B. Thalberg, Edmee Lescot, Minnie Schulte, Harry Kennedy, Eunice Vance, Tony Pastor and others.

"New Blood." Augustus Thomas's pay, that will be presented at the Garden Theatre Jan. 7 by A. M. Palmer's company, is owned by Joseph Brooks, Craner manager, who lets it out on royalty to Mr. Palmer. Thomas and Palmer, it will be remembered, had a disagreement at the time of the production of "Mr. Carter of Cartersville." and the playright refused to submit any more of his work to that manager. Under these circumstances it is interesting to learn that "New Blood" will be given at the Garden.

Commissioner Holahan's pretty little daugater Jane Stuart is still with the company that is headed by Felix Morris, formerly of Rosina Vokes's company. According to an Indiana critic, Miss Stuart casts Mr. Morris rather unceremoniously into the background, and "darts to the front as the unchallenged star." What a singularly rude and uncomfortable thing to do!

There is to be another theatrical periodical in the field, and it will be called Leander Richardson's Illustrated Dramatic Weekly. The principal part of the writing will be done by Mr. Richardson, who has been associated for so many years with theatrical journalism, and whose caustic pen is well known.

The tenement in question is reached by a small alley known as Cat alley. A score or more of families reside there. The case was reported to the Health Department by the Oak street police, who had been informed by a woman living in the neighborhood. From inspection made by the health authorities, it appears that the woman had been sick for five or six days, and that she had been dead for at least four hours prior to the discovery by the police.

The dead woman's husband is a padrone, who lets out laborers to railroads in New Jersey. Many of the workingmen lodged with Tressanti and his wife, and fears are expressed that the discase will be spread to other quarters. For twenty days the house will be kept under surveillance and care taken that no one carries the infection to other quarters should the disease break out

Several thousand persons gathered in Central Park, San Francisco, yesterday afternoon, to witness an innovation on the football field. The game was played by two elevens composed of women, old and young, attired in abbreviated skirts and knee trousers. The game was under association rules and resulted in a score of two to nothing. The winning team is known as the "Colleen Bawns," and the vanquished as the "Bonnie Lassies."

Though the play was rough at times, no one was painfully injured.
